

Member-at-Large Report of Ashley Cederwall
Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC)
National Capital Region (NCR) Regional Executive

For the Period of April 1 - July 31, 2017

- I continued my engagement with the PSAC-CAPE Reignite: Policy and Labour Learning Series, as a member of the coordinating committee and as an event attendee. The PSAC-CAPE Reignite Committee coordinated one event over the period of April to July:
- On June 22, 2017 Professor Craig Heron of York University spoke on the topic of “Our pain, your gain: the legacy of strikes and job actions in Canada”. The event was well-attended.
- I continued to sit on the PSAC-NCR Regional Education Committee.
- I attended my first PSAC Triennial Regional Convention in the National Capital Region in May.
- I completed a semester at Carleton University. My work included a research paper on the history of the employment relationship and enhancing justice within the employment relationship, in keeping with the axiom that if you believe the world should be other than it is, you must first ask why it is the way it is.
